NEW PUBLISHING ARRANGE. MENT.

As will be seen in our local department, new arrangements have been made in regard to the future publication of the FLAG. Mr. Hayes, who has become a joint partner in the office. is a practical printer, and understands executing plain and fancy printing thoroughly. The large amount of Job printing which has accumulated in the office will now be disposed of. Improvements will be mude, also, in the paper. We propose to print no "milk and cider, half-and-half concern, but a straight-out Republican newspaper, adadvocating the straight Republican doctrine. We are satisfied that good citizens of all political parties have and will continue to appreciate our course, and despise and detest the sycophant who professes one thing and acts out another. Our partner, Mr. Hayes, is not a drunken, besotted, unscrupulous vagabond, but a sober, industrious gentleman, hence we enter upon our new career with every prospect of success. We therefore ask a continuance of the liberal patronage heretofore extended to us by the public.

Of these programmes and designs we propose, from week to week, to write, because they are at deadly en- feit. Such they are in the interest of what was a expired himself. slaveholder's aristocracy; and what is now a miserable, contemptible, execrable aristocracy of caste, nurtured and fed by hatred and ill-will toward the National Government; hostility to the rights and interests of the humble and poor of the land; and a gangrene love and greed for ruling place and power with the object and design of blasting, cursing and blighting.

As we propose in this article, only, to open the way for more extended action on the field, it will be necessary to say something, in advance, touching the character, past record and present status of Dis-Hon, Rebel Democracy, cut the throat of the latter, sever-He is now a public candidate, and his ing the jugular, and then fied. To that original element of composition was added a floating material composed of a class of men from other parties or factions whose philanthropy and patriotism consisted of that peculiar filthy lucre composed of corruption, dollars and cents and dishonorable and dishonest plunder.

The representative individual thus formed-Mr. Rebel Democracy-disclosed and developed his peculiar power, animus, and virus in 1860-1-2-3-4 and 5. The first aggregate act was, to fire the Southern heart and precipirate the Southern States into a causeless and un'awful insurrection and rebellion. Multiplied fields throughout the land were first drenched with human gore and then converted into solemn cities of the dead. The dark weeds of mourning cast their gloomy shadows in almost every household; the foundations of society were broken up; commerce and trade were blasted with ruin; the valuable assets of State Banks, and the solid funds set apart for the education of the poor were invested in pale blue sickly Confederate Cotton Bonds; and the country, especially the South, was thrust down to the low and deep pits of bankruptcy. THE EUROPEAN WAR.

LONDON, Jan. 9,-Dispatches to the evening of the 8th, report Bourbaki as marching on Nancy and Belfort.

The Prussians re-occupied Auxonne The French entered Semur. The Prussians are generally withdrawing from the northern departments. The French marine infantry repulsed a Prussian detachment near Bugate.

Favre still awaits an invitation to the conference. The ulhans appeared under the walls of Lille. Great destruction prevails in Ami as and vicinity. Faidherbe officially said he thought the Prussians would not deny the French victory this time, but he finds the P. ussians bulletins for the second time annihilate his army. Paidberbe proceeds to discuss the more glaring inaccuracies of the German roport. The Frence, on the night of the 3d, ocenpied the village they had congured and went into camp only on the following morning. As to the oursuit the only support of the claim is that on the morning of the 4th two squadrons of cavalry charged the French blood, he laid it on the wall of Mr. Nathan's rear guard. One was annihilated and the other wheeled off and fled.

LONDON Jan. 9 - Paris advices to the 3d, say Trochu proclaims the efforts to destroy the union and confipreparing to act and do its duty. No dissensions exist among the members of the Government. HAVRE, Jan. 8 .- Gen. Ray, defeating ten thousand Prossians, mostly from Rouen, occupied Bourgachard and at night, he some belated residents of the Baurgetherold, and threatens to drive the Prussians from Point Ademar.

LONDON, Jan 8 - The Times' spehas arrived here. The Prussians guns could easily shell the city severely. There was not much firing to-day. The French redoubt at Notre Dame and De Clamart were captured and the guns turned against the French.

The Prussian loss is insignificant. New York, Jan. 9. The Herald's special says on the 8th suspected Bonapartists were arrested in the department of the Saone and elsewhere, and will probably be court martialed. The special adds that the reign of terror is commencing. Private advices from Versailles express the confidence that only Fort Valerian will be able to withstand the Prussian bombardment.

BORDEAUX, Jan. 9 - The Germans on Friday attacked the French position at Ville, Chaube, Ville Porcher, St. Cyr. and Surgault, and forced the French lines at Neuville.

Subsequently the French assuming the offensive, recovered the positions and entered St. Armand. The Prussians returned toward Vendome, leaving many wounded and prisoners The Germans re-occupied Laforche and threaten Norgent Le Pateron.

Count Joanne's Extraordinary Sensation and Discovery of the Murderer.

[From the New York Sun.]

The intelligence that the murderer Renismin Nathan has been discovered, that the evidence against him, though circum- ately, stantial, is clear and convincing, and that he is now in the bands of the authorities though arrested for a different offense, cannot be read without a thrill of excitement by even the most spathetic and incredulous.

This discovery is due to the skill and determination of the well known couns for and advocate, Count Josunes. Following step by step, with remarkable perseverance, a clue that had falleng into his hands, he seems to have entirely cleared up the mystery. The assassin entered Mr. Nathan's house as a burglar, for the purpose of plundering it. Mr. Nathan was asleep. The noise of the intruder awoke him. Supposing it to be one of his sons, he said, "Harmon is it you? Thes were his last words. The robber at once became a murderer, striking the old man dead with the iron dog, or, as he called it, the "rung." Mr. Nathan was killed in or-erthat the burglar might not be detected, arrest d and punished. The blow was struck by a left-handed man, whose right hand had been mutilated, so that when, covered with room, it left there the mark of a hend with only four fingers. That man, we are assured, is now in custody.

The testimony presented by Count Jonnnes settles forever the question, so shocking to every human feeling, whether any o' dence to which Paris owes its prolong. Mr. Nathan's family in any way implicated ed resistance, will fail. The army is in his marder. It shows that they were all erfec ly innocent in thanght, as well as it deed ; to at the crime was the work exclusively of a professional robber, who had accomplices. This evidence will be most manding the fortications report slight grateful not only to the relatives of the murdamage to suburban villages by the dered man, but to all persons whose hearts are not as wicked as that of the murderer
